

Michael Dillinger is currently an Assistant Special Agent in Charge with the U.S. Department of Justice, Office of the Inspector General in Washington, DC. and serves as the Vice President of Development and Programs for the Federal Law Enforcement Officers Association (FLEOA). Michael has been representing FLEOA on the National Law Enforcement Memorial and Museum Foundation Board of Directors since 2016.

In 1991, Michael began his law enforcement career in the State of Tennessee and transitioned to federal law enforcement in 1999 with the U.S. Department of Treasury. In his current position, Michael manages the enforcement operations and training for special agents. Michael holds several instructor certifications from FLETC and has been involved with special agent training since 2001. Michael graduated with a bachelor's degree in Criminal Justice Administration.

Michael has been an active member of FLEOA since 2002. In addition to serving as the VP of Development and Programs, he serves as the DOJ-OIG FLEOA agency President and as a member of FLEOA's Legal Committee. In addition to FLEOA, Michael is also a member and former President of the National Native American Law Enforcement Association (NNALEA).