

Emilio J. Miyares serves as National President of Concerns of Police Survivors. He is the surviving son of Hialeah (FL) Police Officer Emilio F. Miyares, who was shot and killed in the line of duty on November 6, 1986, when Emilio was just seven years old. Together with his mother and sister, the Miyares family found support through C.O.P.S. during the early years and has continued the mission of helping other surviving law enforcement family members and co-workers rebuild their shattered lives.

Emilio has served C.O.P.S. in several capacities including Southeast Region Trustee from 2010 to 2014, 2018-2019 and as Treasurer of his local South Florida C.O.P.S. Chapter from 2003-2019. In 2019, Emilio was elected National President, the first male survivor to serve in this role in the history of C.O.P.S. A Certified Public Accountant by trade, Emilio brings his knowledge of financial health and business sense to both C.O.P.S. and as a sitting member of the board of the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial Fund.

Since 2002, Emilio has participated in many programs including Outward Bound and Adult Children's Retreat, and has served as a mentor at the C.O.P.S. Kids/Teens Program during National Police Week.

Emilio resides in Miami, Florida, with his wife and three daughters.
