OFFICER-OPERATED REPORTING

Officer collects info at reportable and non-reportable crashes.

CITIZEN SELF REPORTING

When no officer is on scene of minor crash and citizens exchange info.

OFFICER-GUIDED REPORTING

Citizens exchange info while officer investigates and clears crash scene.

REMOTE-START REPORTING

Citizens start crash report in advance of officer arrival on scene.

Officer-Operated Reporting

This is the Driver Exchange you know and love. You collect info at reportable and non-reportable crashes via the digital app, eliminating errors, and delivering the crash report to citizens from the scene.

Officer-Guided Reporting

When you need to investigate or clear the scene, citizens can begin information exchange and you can jump in when you're ready.

Citizen Self Reporting

When you can't get there, or your agency policy dictates no dispatch to minor crashes, send a link to involved parties to facilitate the easy exchange of information.

Remote-Start Reporting

When you can't get there right away, send a link to involved parties to get the crash report in advance of your arrival.

CARFAX for Police Driver Exchange

- ✓ Citizen(s) receive an invite to self report via text, email or URL to enter a code to start.
- ✓ Involved parties can use QR code or URL to invite others to self-report at the scene.

"Driver Exchange has cut my officers time down tremendously when dealing with minor accidents. Our citizens have also commented on how easy it has been to retrieve the information needed for insurance companies. Our records division has also benefited from the driver exchange program which has reduced the number of citizens contacting them to obtain information."

- Captain Johnson, Cookville (TN) Police Department

"Roadside safety is a key priority for our agency. We want to keep our officers safe by getting them off the road and and returning traffic flow back to normal as quickly as possible, while obtaining accurate information. Driver exchange and eCrash have allowed our officers to capture the involved driver/vehicle information quickly and efficiently and has reduced our time spent at crash scenes."

- Sergeant Eric Lewis, Longmont Police Department
